MGMT 247 THE BUSINESS OF FUN: DEVELOPING SUSTAINABLE TOURISM DESTINATIONS THROUGH INTERDISCIPLINARITY

Instructor Name : Dr. Kevin Cheong
 Title : Adjunct Lecturer
 Email : kevincheong@smu.edu.sg

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The term "Business of Fun" refers to the industry and practices involved in creating, managing, and marketing entertainment experiences and leisure activities designed to provide enjoyment and pleasure to consumers. It encompasses a variety of sectors, including theme parks (e.g. Disneyland), amusement parks (e.g. Legoland Resort Malaysia), leisure facilities (e.g. Gardens By The Bay), entertainment venues (e.g., Esplanade), and other recreational enterprises (e.g., Sentosa Development Corporation). In essence, the Business of Fun is about creating and managing environments that bring joy and entertainment to people, while also being commercially successful and sustainable.

This new course offers an interdisciplinary perspective of the business of fun based on an in-depth exploration of selected key business aspects that are critical for the successful development, management and operation of theme parks and major tourist destinations. Students will gain insights into how these varied organisational and business elements drive the success and sustainability of the tourism and entertainment industries.

Key topics include:

- Sustainable Destination Planning: Analyzing case studies of leading theme parks and tourist destinations from an interdisciplinary perspective to understand strategic planning processes, including market analysis, innovation, and operational efficiency while balancing sustainability and commercial objectives.
- Guest Experience Management: Sustainability is critical in crafting meaningful guest experiences to ensure that visitors have a memorable and enjoyable experience. This involves aspects such as sustainable customer experience, excellent customer service, park layout, queuing systems, and the overall atmosphere.
- Human Capital in Service Business Operations: Understanding the role of workforce planning, talent development, and employee engagement in creating memorable visitor experiences. Emphasis is placed on talent attraction, upskilling and customer service leadership training, as well as ESG onboarding and performance management to build a skilled and motivated team.
- Sustainability and Stakeholder Engagement: Examining methods for effectively identifying and managing relationships with diverse stakeholders, including government entities, local communities, suppliers, business partners, and guests/visitors. Exploring strategies for integrating sustainability practices and community involvement into destination management, ensuring long-term viability and positive societal impact. Students will learn why effective stakeholder management is vital for aligning interests, enhancing operations, maintaining a positive brand image, innovation, and ensuring regulatory compliance.

- Social Media and User-Generated Content in the Branding and Marketing of Places: Examining how the brand of a place and destination is personified and develops a relationship with its visitors and online users. Exploring strategies to excite and motivate “Instagram-ability” in destination marketing through experience sharing via social media platforms.

Through a combination of lectures, case studies, site visits, and hands-on projects, students will develop the skills necessary to manage complex operations and foster collaborative relationships in the dynamic world of theme parks and tourist destinations. The course will prepare students for careers in tourism management, hospitality, entertainment, and sustainability, emphasizing the importance of an interdisciplinary approach in managing service operations, stakeholder engagement, guest experience, and sustainability in achieving strategic objectives.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

- Understand and identify key aspects in developing and delivering memorable and enjoyable guest/visitor experiences that are sustainable
- Examine methods for effectively identifying and managing relationships with diverse stakeholders for sustainability, including government entities, local communities, suppliers, business partners, and guests/visitors
- Analyse case studies of leading theme parks and tourist destinations to understand strategic planning processes, including market analysis, innovation, and sustained operational efficiency
- Develop strategies for integrating sustainability practices and community involvement into destination management, to ensure long-term viability and positive societal impact.

PRE-REQUISITES / REQUIREMENTS / MUTUALLY EXCLUSIVE COURSE(S)

None

ASSESSMENT METHODS

There is no final examination in this course.

Cumulative assessment (CA) constitutes 100% of the final grade, consisting of:

Individual Assessments: 60% of total, consisting of:	Class participation	10%
	In-class quiz	20%
	Individual reflection assignment	30%
Group Assessment: 40% of total, consisting of:	Group research project / presentation	40%

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS AND EXPECTATIONS

The course approach is based on both analytical rigour and the practical utilisation and application of concepts and principles. During the course, a variety of teaching and learning techniques will be employed to enable students to think critically and imaginatively about the various implications of the topic. To realise the goal of a shared learning experience between students and instructor, the course is aimed at integrating real-world destination challenges, practical placemaking experiences, interaction with practicing placemakers and destination managers, individual/group projects, and critical reflection on the various course materials.
